TIMES DIAMOND

This Is the Diamond Ring

Where is The Times diamond?

For the past three weeks, advertising columns of The Times have been asking this question.

Today, The Times explains the story behind that "teaser," simultaneously announcing a fun game in which the lone prize is:

A DIAMOND RING FASHIONED BY THE CRAFTSMEN OF HENRY BIRKS AND SONS IN THEIR MONTREAL JEWEL STUDIOS, AND VALUED AT $1,000!

The valuable ring, containing three exquisite stones, and mounted in an elegant setting, arrived in the city this week and will shortly be on display in Birks' window.

The prize was offered by The Times to mark the occasion of its 75th (Diamond) anniversary, which occurs one month from today.

So now the great treasure-hunt is on. A piece of Times' stationery, entitling the finder to claim "The Times Diamond," has been secreted Greater Victoria. Only two persons know whereabouts.

The burning question today is: Where is it?

This much can be revealed: In order to locate "The Times Diamond," it will not be necessary to dig, shovel, hoe, climb a fence, or invade any person's private property.

Each day, until the precious slip of paper is found, readers will be given a clue There are no forms to fill out, no special rules or regulations to obey. Only persons disqualified from the treasure-hunt are employees of Victoria Press Ltd., of Henry Birks and Sons Ltd., and their families. Officers of The Times will adjudicate any questions which may arise, and their decision will be final.

It is recommended that clues be clipped out daily and saved. Some of them will be trickybut gradually a pattern will emerge.

Here is the first one:

The stars are diamonds in the sky But one much nearer earth may lie.

More Bodies Found in Nile Boat Disaster

CAIRO (AP) - Divers and navy frogmen today recovered an additional 40 bodies from the sunken hulk of the river boat Dandara, which capsized Friday with a holiday picnic crowd of about 300 persons

These were in addition to 10 bodies found Friday night. Police said at least 95 persons still are unaccounted for, placing the probable toll at nearly 150.

The victims, mostly women and children, were drowned when the heavily loaded craft sprang an underwater leak and sank about six yards offshore. Most of the victims were trapped beneath decks amid wild confusion. The tragedy occurred as the 200 ton double-decker craft. ## End of Chain Reaction

VICTORIA PROPERTY OWN. ers have been told that their city taxes will be up an average of 13.75 per cent this year. Therein they see the end result of a chain reaction starting in Ottawa and rippling out to all corners of the

The Federal Government is spending heavily and running deepin debt despite higher taxation. has insufficient funds to give provinces what they hoped to receive. The provinces, in turn, are caught in high expenditures and decline the assistance that cities and municipalities have expected from them.

Finally the city and municipal councils turn for funds to their main source of revenue, the prop-erty-owner—incidentally, the same citizen who is paying high taxes to the Federal and Provincial governments.

The property-owner watches the mill rate and, in most local cases, the assessment rise. That means a tax-collecting hand delving deeper into his pocket. In this community the home-owner wonders how long he can hold his home. How long can he, if charges increase in the next few years as they have this?

For most property-owners the $28 of their own money which Mr. Bennett returned to them has gone down the drain. There was no in-crease in this grant this year. If property - owning voter had any illusions about provincial generosity as a result of this return of his own money, he can have none now

The situation in British Col-umbia is somewhat different from that in most provinces. One reason British Columbia has neglected to give the municipalities the help they so obviously need has been Premier Bennett's over-riding ambition to burn the province's direct debt ceremonial fire this issues at summer. He is not, of course, eliminating debt, since it continues to mount in contingent liabilities.

However, when the ashes of the ceremonial fire grow cold, Mr. Bennett should have an accumulate ing provincial revenue no required to pay off, or meet carrying charges on, direct debt. Next year he should be in a position either to reduce the taxes the Provincial Government imposes on its citizens, or provide the assist-ance needed by municipalities to ease the burden of taxation on real

The premier must know that our society is based on a man's home. He must appreciate the fact that if taxes continue to rise, confiscation for the poor man is not far off. That is the point bludgeoned home by the excessive increases in Greater Victoria municipal taxes this year.

Stabilizing Foreign Aid

PROBABLY NO NATION IN history has dispensed so much in financial assistance to other countries as the United States has in the form of funds for economic and military aid. The benefits to recipients have been great; particularly in the underdeveloped lands of Asia have American gifts and loans brought lasting improvements.

But there has been a fault in the system of foreign aid, generous though the expenditures have been. Each year's program must be argued out in Congress, with all the risk of defeat for aid programs. lack of continuity in projects and even abandonment of work already under way.

Another defect deriving from the annual nature of the aid programs has been the hurt feelings of foreign governments that have been denounced by opponents of the various aid bills. These have led to diplomatic contretemps with the offended nations, and in at one case an applicant for aid has turned to Russia when U.S. Senators publicly questioned its political

A valuable proposal has now been made to overcome much of this difficulty. Senator Fullbright, who is chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, suggests amendments which would raise the capital of the U.S. Development Loan Fund from $700 millions to $1.5 billions, to be used over a five-year period.

This means that long-term projects would be assured of financing for at least five years in advance, thus avoiding the annual gamble as to whether or not further money would be forthcoming.

The proposed amendments, if adopted, would be an answer to the problems which now arise and would place the whole program on a more workable basis. The matter aid to under-developed lands is becoming more and more a factor in the cold war. And while the humanitarian urge should remain paramount motive in foreign there is no denying that such aid may be a powerful form of persuasion in winning undeclared countries for the democratic camp.

It has been asserted, and not without evidence, that loans and gifts of money do not guarantee the support, or even the friendship, recipients. But we can be sure that failure of the West to answer a need will be used to advantage by the Communist world. Senator Fullbright's proposals would strengthen the U.S. program and do much to stabilize relations with po-

Disquieting to South Africa

RECENT EVENTS IN SOUTH Africa have emphasized the will of that country's government to press apartheid. But restrictive as legislation is, harsh as may be its expression, South Africans are ap-parently becoming aware of the fact that the non-white is in the ascendant elsewhere on their continent.

They note, and are impressed by, the All-African Peoples Conference in Accra, Ghana, and are following the activities of that country's premier Nkrumah. They recognize the growing strength of African nation-

A highly sports conscious people the South Africans have been jolted by the success of a 19-year-old African schoolboy who beat Britain's outstanding distance man, Gordon Pirie, by an easy 100 yards in a three-mile race.

They have been shocked by the decision of the United States to vote against South Africa on that counracial policy debates in the United Nations.

And at home they have been im-pressed by the determination of the Black Sash political movement-a group of white women whose demon-strations in the interests of the nonwhites have been impressive.

This has not prevented South

Africa from pushing into effect its race-zoning laws, enforcing segregation even on buses which had long carried whites and non-whites together, and denying passports to non-white students who have won bursaries offered by universities

The oppression continues, but white supremacy element in South Africa has apparently turned from an isolationist frame of mind which it once used to shut out evidence of spreading strength in Black Africa. And if the government of South Africa could manage to ignore this development, it could scarcely turn a deaf ear to one of its own distinguished Afrikaner figures, Prof. P. V. Pistorious, who has told a packed Cape Town audience: "Even the most ardent supporters of apar-theid know that it will fail in the

Bobby Helmets Again

When is our Victoria going to wake up to the fact that we are British Co lumbians, and won't be dictated to by certain ones in Victoria who partake of all our benefits, yet won't admit that they are true Canadians?

The fact remains we in Canada, and I am one who came to B.C. 54 years ago and love it, won't sit still and take all this British "pomp and vanity", condemned in our prayer book, and not defend our Canada which is on the brink of Hell, and badly run by many of our federal, provincial and civic govern ments who are not true Canadians.

No true Canadian wants bobby helmets in our Victoria, B.C., and I don't believe our policemen do either. There are too many dictators coming in from England who think they are God's holy dictators, when actually they are the devil's, and thousands in our Canada and those who adopted Canada because we were fed up with all this "pomp and vanity" crawling into our B.C. and Canada.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

On to the Loveliest of All the Little Towns --- Hazelton

IT is a sobering reflection that until only about fifty years ago the bulk yn to the

of this province majority of its citizens. Before 1909 practically the whole development of British Columbia was confined to a relatively narrow strip lying south of Kamloops. The huge hinterland was, with the exception of an occasional settlement along the

Cariboo Road, practically unpopulated and pretty well terra

incognita Bride, later to have a knighthood conferred on him announced his ambitious and controversial railway policy which included construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through British Columbia to Prince Rupert. It is, of course, the Canadian National Railway

And another part of railway policy envisioned the construction of the Pa-cific Great Eastern over the very route it now uses; a route of great scenic

There was, therefore, every excuse for the majority of British Columbians to remain in personal ignorance of the great north and north central sections of the province. Indeed, he was a hardy soul who had the courage to set out from the coast to Fort George by auto-mobile; and it is unlikely that such a trip could be made at least without or mishap. Today there is no excuse at all for us to remain in ignorance of the sweep-ing majejsty of the Great North Road up to what is now the hustling city of Prince George and then westward through Burns Lake, Telkwa, Smithers and on to what I think is the loveliest of all the little towns—Hazelton.

I saw it first in the autumn while the days were clear and warm and the nights cool and crisp.

Along the banks of the Skeena and the Bulkley the tall cottonwoods, pep-lars and the more modest and shy willows were putting on their glorious autumnal finery and as the breezes ruffled their leaves they seemed to have been made of pure beaten gold.

It was a friendly place; one of the friendliest in a country noted for hospitality. Even in the only hotel the clerk was honest enough to suggest that instead of eating in the hotel dining room we go down the road a piece where a woman—whose name I have forgotten—provided simply fabulous Investigation and a smiling welcome confirmed the clerk's report, and I have ever since associated her laden table with the cliche ". . . the groaning After a monstrous lunch which violated every principle of girth control we visited the old Hudson's Bay store which had not yet been wholly divorced from its role of trading post.

While there we heard the unmistakable sound of an arriving dog team—which did seem to be an anachronism—and in a few moments a burly, ruddyfaced man entered the store. He dressed largely in buckskin and shoes were moccasins; his cap an animal skin with the tail dangling.

He greeted the store clerk who ap-words of greeting and those required to state his order, the maintained a complete silence. He had a gift of silence I do not reformber the list of purchases but they included only the bare necessities; flitches of bacon, coffee, flour, beans, sugar and hard plugs of When the order was made up he reached inside his buckskin shirt and pulled out a heavy rawhide poke which he tossed on the counter. The clerk set up gold scales and proceeded to shake out fine gold dust until its value equalled the trapper's order.

When the transaction was completed the visitor carried his stuff outside and, sure enough, there were his dogs, sitting on their haunches and hitched to He grasped the handles, called to the dogs and headed out of town over the first light snowfall of the season.

The Hudson's Bay men said the old man was a Dutchman, part trapper, part placer miner from somewhere up in the Stiklne country, who minded his own business and kept his own counsel. Twice a year he came out for supplies and to exchange perhaps a score or words with townspeople. When dusk had fallen we were escorted to a church "sociable" where we again faced an almost unbelievable array of tempting foods. I think that Hazelton, as in every other small community, such occasions bring out the true competitive spirit of its women-folk—to our immeasurable gain.

Tired and replete we strolled through the wondrous night, silent now except for the laughter of the Bulkley and the great Skeena as they met and joined forces to flow into the faroff

There was a nip of frost in the air and, as though this place must lavish beauty on us, a full, silvery moon came up behind Rocher de Boule, which I think is one of the most beautiful mountains in the world.

HERE IS NO NEW PHENOMENON

What Are the Salient Characteristics of the Beatniks?

WE hear so much about the Beat Generation these days that there is a grave danger that we shall end by believing that such a thing exists. It seems to me that to generalize about all young people in North America between the ages of 20 and 35 on the basis of the behavior of a few hundreds living in New York and San Fgancisco is both stupid and unjust; and the more one looks at the evidence the more What are the salient characteristics of the so-called Beatniks? As a protest against conventional dress they adopt an unconventional uniform; they have a language of their own; they drink to excess, they are sexually promiscuous, and some of them are addicted iscuous, and some of them are addicted to narcotics; they all unite in bottom-less contempt for the square.

Is this anything new? Would Murger who wrote "La Vie de Boheme" feel a stranger in North Beach? Would Wyndham Lewis, who described pre-1914 Paris in his brilliant novel "Tarr," find anything startlingth and find anything startlingly novel the Beat way of life? Are none of the these young people aware that most of this is pretty old stuff?

At any time during the last 50 years the pubs of Fitzroy Square and Chelsea in London, the bars of Montparnasse in Paris and the Kurfurstendamm in Berlin and Greenwich Villages in New York have been peopled by groups in unconventional dress who talked jargon of their own, drank too much, swapped boy and girl-friends casually, and heartily despised the "bourgeoisie," as our friend the "square" used to be

The beatnik appears to have two philosophies to choose from: a completely a political nihilism, or some version of Zen Buddhism; his counterpart in the Forties was the Existentialist, in the Thirties the Pacifist Communist Anarcho-Syndicalist; the turn of the century Bohemian was usually an ardent Nietzschean. Nothing new here.

Minority groups in reaction against the values of their community usually have a jargon of their own. Thieves' in Villon, and was centuries old then, Catchwords and phrases fly rapidly round the bars and basements of Bohemia; certain expressions become "the thing," while others are definitely out.

95 per cent of the words in their vo cabulary were in current usage among the jazz musicians of the late Twenties. "Cat" and "pad" and "chick" are old enough to have been included in the little Hipster's Dictionary put out by Cab Calloway in 1935; the verb "to swing" has been used in a variety of unmusical contexts by Louis Armstrong and other New Orleans musicians for a quarter of a century.

"Cool" jazz from the Forties on produced some new slang words which the beats have taken over. I cannot see that they have invented anything in the of ncologisms for themselves.

Out of the Bohemias of other places and other times emerged all the great artists whose works are enshrined today in the cultural temples erected by Very little seems to come out of North Beach.

The poetry of Allen Ginsberg, which has caused such a stir in judicial circles, is pretty pallid compared to the writings say, Henri Michaux; the novels of Jack Kerouse and Clellon Holmes she evidence of talent, but they don't stand comparison with the writing of Henry Miller or, Louis Ferdinand Celine.

The more productive beatniks pear to be rather restricted in their choice of subjects: Kerouac writes about Clellon Holmes and Carl Solomon and Allen Ginsberg and the pseudonymous "junkie" who calls himself "William Lee"; Holmes writes about Kerouac and Solomon and Ginsberg and "Lee"; Ginsberg returns the compliment all round, while Solomon, when not undergoing shock therapy, writes about him-

An interesting result of the beatnik's rejection of conventional morality is his idealization of the petty criminal and juvenile delinquent. This links him with Sarfre's worship of Jean Genet the pickpocket pederast playwright, whom Sartre and the existentialists call Saint-Genet, and who writes the most scab-rous matter, in the purest of formally pure Academic French. What is to become of the Beatniks? Most of them will become less beat and more square as the years pass, until they are indistinguishable from the rest of the community. Some will hang on to their lack of principle like the grimest death, and their end will be that of Maxwell Bodenheim, Scott Fitz

Thomas and countless others. Rexroth has warned them: "... the result must be the desperation of shipwreck—the despair, the orgies, the can-nibalism of the lost lifeboat."

Not All Actors In Harness

There's an old saying that actors never retire except by death, illness or public apathy Yet there have been a few Hollywood history to defy that Oldtimers can cite Gareth Hughes, romantic star of the silents. He turned his back on the movies to serve as a missionary among poor In-dians of Nevada.

Several stars were "retired" by the advent of sound, but at ast three film beauties left pictures voluntarily early '30s. They were Billie Dove, Dorothy Mackail and Evelyn Knapp, who dropped out for marriage careers.

Well suited to the role is dark-eyed Adele Goult, outstanding Victoria soprano. Miss Goult sings the famous "Laughing Song" in Act II.

Strauss Operetta Loved Masterpiece

Victoria's Gilbert and Sullivan Society, who have achieved rather astonishingly high standards in their past public performances of light opera and operetta, are undertaking this month what is, to my knowledge, their most ambitious venture yet: Die Fledermaus (The Bat) by Johann Strauss. In so doing, they are venturing forth well beyond the realm within which amateur societies such as

They, however, unlike other similar organizations elsewhere, have demonstrated their right to do so, on the eisewhere, have deliberated basis of their past efforts, having managed to combine musical and vocal security of an order usually, though musical and vocal security of an order usually, though vaguely, described as "professional," together with that infectious vitality of amateurs—amateurs in the best sense of the word, i.e. those who love what they do.

Let us not misunderstand the use of the term here. Some of the world's greatest "professionals" have become that mainly because they are dedicated amateurs.

Die Fledermaus, by the Viennese waltz king, is an incomparable masterpiece of its type. It is one of the few musical creations in existence which commands the respect of professional composers and conductors for its technical craftsmanship as well as the popular appreciation and following of anyone capable of responding to any kind of tune.

Fledermaus Keeps August Company

Strauss himself meant it for wide popular consumption and easy assimilation; he intended it to be "entertainment" cast in operetta form, comic operetta at that.

He could scarcely have foreseen that his Fledermaus would become a beloved part of the standard repertory of the world's most august opera houses; would be produced side by side with the Wagner Ring cycle at the Vienna and the Metropolitan opera houses; and receive there the the Metropolitan opera houses, and receive there the lavish attentions of glittering casts of world famous opera stars and of some of the most serious of "maestri," including Herbert von Karajan, Eugene Ormandy, Bruno on told, but have not undertaken sufficient research to confirm it, that Toscanini himself conducted Die Fledermaus at one of the pre-war Salzburg festivals.

What endless pains—for the sheer love of it—must have been expended by our Gilbert and Sullivan Society, conductor Stanley Hoban and stage director Audrey Johnson, to bring this production about I cannot think Perhaps others will agree with me that this is music that evokes the countryside and has a touch of spring. It also gives us a glimpse of Dvorak as a man of genius without a trace of pomposity.

This work is often referred to as the English sympony because it was a man of genius produced in Martin Denny's "Quiet Village."

Two records toppled Presley during the week—a fiddle record and an organ record. These instruments have really made a dent in the rock-and-

Speed-Up

Contrary to common belief, herbicides do not poison plants as insecticides poison insects. They are growth hormones which cause plants to grow more rapidly than is normal. This speeding-up of growth demands greater supplies of food than the plants are able to manufacture, so that all re-serves are soon depleted and the plants literally grow themelves to death. To be effective the hormones must be transferred to all parts of the plants, therefore the plants must be in active growth. The periods of greatest growth activity are spring and fall, many plants having a kind of holiday during the heat of summer when the movement of sap is somewhat curtailed.

Some plants are difficult to control with herbicides because their sensitive leaves react to the acids so rapidly they are killed within a day or so. When the leaves fail, no more when the leaves Iail, no more manufacturing of food is carried on and the hormone is not carried to all parts of the plant, allowing time for recovery and the production of new growths and leaves.

In such instances several applications may be needed efore the reserves are de

Both these properties are of immense value to commercial fruit growers, but the home gardener is interested mainly in the control of objectionable damage to desirable plants, a feasible practice if care is exercised.

Some forms of the acids used for weed control are more volatile than other forms, and the vapors can damage sus-ceptible plants although no spray drift may reach them. Many house and greenhouse plants are extermely sensitive to these vapors, and when the

SATURDAY IS BARGAIN RAY:

To slender Bill Wakeham goes the task of stopping the pros from making a habit of walleing off with the nes Open golf crown. Oak Bay's Laurie Carroll finally ended a long drought for the play for pay boys when he trimmed John Merriman with five holes to spare in last year's final. This time it's Ron MacLeod packing the mail for the pros at Colwood in tomorrow's 36 hole windup of the annual sand-trap clambake and it's no secret that Ron would dearly love to acquire the prestige that goes with an Island Open

The blazer, adorned with the Times Open crest, would be just the thing around swanky Jasper Park Lodge, where the Victoria swatter spends his summers as course professional.

Canadian junior this summer with a win tomorrow, Both finalists will tell you they expect to win and around the hills and valleys of Gorge Vale they're ready to back willowy William with folding stuff. Out on the wind-swept rocks at Oak Bay, where Ron does his winter divot-digging, they've dug up a few clams to support claims that the pros will make it two straight titles.

It promises to be an interesting day on the tree-lined Colwood fairways.

BASEBALL BANTER: Despite all the reasons offered for the so-called collapse of the Yankees, the real reason for Casey's crisis is that he doesn't have a real Yankee ... You can't really call them Yankees when they Tony Kubek in centrefield, Bobby Richardson at shortstop, Jerry Lumpe at second base, Marve Throneberry at first, Cletis Boyer at third. At one time or another this spring, they have all been in Stengel's starting lineup.

They can't be the team they were when Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle aren't in uniform. This could be Yogi's last campaign as an important player, although his skills have lasted remarkably well in the drudgery of catching. In his time, Berra was the most dangerous late-inning hitter in

You could write a book about the dozens of close games he cracked open in the eighth or ninth innings. But in 16 games this year he drove in only four runs.

The Yankee dynasty was founded on Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Manile. Out with a chipped bone in his finger, Mantle this week was sick in bed with flu while Berra was in St. Louis, for the funeral of his mother. Of the first six games Mickey missed, the Yanks only one.

They made it two wins in a row Wednesday, but a two-game streak doesn't mean they have broken the bonds of their current mediocrity. Stengel is piloting an aging team and the Yanks may never be able to get back up to the top before world series time. No one will know until Mantle is back in centre field. He holds the answer what's wrong with the Yankees.

BOXLA BITS: Coach Dox * *

BOXLA BITS: Coach Dox Ashbee, who got his Nanaimo Labatts away to a flying start in the Inter-City Lacrosse League race with a 11.8 victory over our Shamrocks, planned on experimenting with his lineup for several games. But Jack Bionda and the New Westminster Salmonbellies changed his plans in a hurry when they plastered that 22-8 trouncing on Labatts Thursday night.

Now reports out of Nanaimo say that Ashbee has tossed his look-see plan into the trash can and will go with his tested aces the rest of the way. That, of course, means that he'll be shooting all his big guns at the Shamrocks at Memorial Arena next Wednesday.

Before the bombing at New Westminster, a lot of people were rating Lahatts almost an even choice to push the Bellies off the Inter-City League throne and perhaps even to take their place as Mann Cup kings. But the thought here is that Ashbee, putting a lot of faith in some big-waistlined veterans who are getting along in boxla years, may find his club short of legs late in the season

It wouldn't be a surprise to see the Irish rookies catch fire and edge Nanaimo for third place with Salmonbellies in front and Carkings in the runner-up slot.

Bionda's four goals and three assists Thursday after checking in only two days earlier, demonstrates once again that the big guy is a marvel with a lacrosse stick. It alse makes a fellow wonder what kind of scoring records he would rack up if he could retain his enthusiasm for a

You repeatedly see weekend golfers walk up to the first tee and drive without the slightest warmup.

Starting a round without loosening the muscles by swinging the club is unthink-able to a top amateur player and professionals making a living at the game. Any one of them will tell you that it is impossible for him to play consistently well right from the first tee without preliminary exercise.

They say concern of com bines experts over some of the uses being made of adver-tising—or that might be made of it—is the main problem still being worked on by the Cabinet as it tries to hammer out acceptable legislation.

Some idea of the government's attitude and intentions was given by Justice Minister Fulton in a recent Toronto speech to the Association of Canadian Advertisers.

He indicated then that the government is studying mea-sures to eliminate misleading advertising.

WATCH DISCOUNT STORES

Informed sources say the particular problem is what to do about so-called discount stores that advertise a product at a wholesale price when actually it is merely the going retail price knocked down few cents.

There are indications that, by describing such knocked down retail prices as whole-sale prices, the discount operator alleviates some of the concern many retailers have about competitive price-cutting in their sphere.

TOURIST APPRECIATION WEEK MAY 11-17

You share in every one of the 10,000,000 tourist dollars coming to Victoria.

WHAT THE TOURIST INDUSTRY MEANS TO VICTORIA AND YOU

* Added Community Income

Victoria is not an industrial area. Income from tourism is the only readily expandable source of revenue. Last year nearly $10,000,000 came to Victoria from tourists, This income was by no means confined to those directly concerned with the tourist industry but was of major importance to everyone. Hotels, motels, restaurants, clothing stores—everyone meeting the tourist all need employees, require additions, need supplies and by spending their increased income locally the whole community receives a financial transfusion.

★ Decreased Tax Costs

It is a well known fact that any community must raise a given amount of tax money in order to operate as a community, supplying such services as are essential to the health and well being of its citizens. While the total amount required in any period tends to remain fixed, the method of raising this amount depends on the economy of the community as a whole. As the district's income and capital worth increases a correspondingly lower mill rate results. Should the tourist income fail, the present tax rate would have to rise considerably-costing you , money regardless of your occupation.

★ Population Build-Up

One measure of success of any city is the population increase over any given period. Only stagnation can result from static census figures. New faces; new businesses, new services, new customers, these are the life blood of a booming community. Many that come as tourists remain to settle down, if they find the general atmosphere friendly, the economic prospects good and the available facilities to their liking.

* Increased Government Aid

Regardless of politics, any government must try to sup ply the greatest good to the greatest number. Appropriations must be allocated accordingly, the need based on traffic surveys, population trends and other information showing where that need will arise. As tourism increases in this district so will government spending on roads, forestry, fishing and tourist attractions. As population increases, larger school and hospital grants must be awarded.

* YOU CAN HELP THE TOURIST INDUSTRY

What can you do to help the tourist industry? The community in general, can have a very great effect, favourable or otherwise, increasing this essential industry. By courtesy, by learning about the surrounding areas, by creating a friendly atmosphere by referring enquiries to agencies such as the Victoria & Island Publicity Bureau, by treating visitors as possible neighbours, in these and other ways, we should constantly be selling Victoria

Doug Rivette-last of the old-time swimmers anxious to take another crack at Juan de Fuca Strait-News item.

Last of the old-time swimmers! And what a shame, for weren't those the good, old days when the strait was full of swimmers, and Harold Elworthy nearly went out of the towing business because all his tugs were busy

The Golden Age of Strait swimming, from Flo Chadwick to the Jaycee mass swim, was all too brief. But, you must admit, fascinating in sort of a gruesome way.

Hunched over our Times' swim chart (he's now in the grid H-24, still swimming strongly), we followed the progress of Bert Thomas and bet on him or against him, as the case may be.

We cheered the efforts of local boys such as Ben Laughren and Bill Muir, snarled nastily at imported swim-mers who belittled the difficulty of the swim.

We grabbed our daily paper, anxiously looking for pictures of Amy Hiland or Anita Long or Billy Benedict or Janice White, standing on the shore of Horseshoe Bay and pointing to the south.

We listened solemnly as each swimmer said he was

we listened solemnly as each swimmer said he was going to do it for the challenge, and we cheered wildly when Ted Simmons, the Toronto garbageman, came along and said HE was doing it for the money.

And, of course, we followed with great interest the nickname-colning contest of the sportswriters (Burly Bert, Big Ben, Muir the Saanich Surveyor, Marilyn the Swimming Sweetheart).

And then there was that hysterical night when we sat over our swim charts, swearing we would go to bed after one more broadcast. But we stayed there until it, was time to go down and welcome Bert Thomas, and make him a freeman of the city, and all like that.

In a way, it was a pity when Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon came out here and swam south and swam north and took the edge off the challenge.

Because hardly anybody wants to swim the Strait any-

Mayor Jack Dobson radiates pride when he talks of projects accomplished and plans for the future of the City of Duncan. He is pictured at left with Mrs. Dobson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Homer. Mr. Homer is chairman of the Cowichan District School Board. He and his associates plan for the not too distant day when the school population of this district will be more than doubled.

DUNCAN

Steps Ahead

The City of Duncan - one of Vancouver Island's most industrious small communities-is growing. It's population today is placed at approximately 5,000, and it is the centre of the Cowichan Valley area that has a total of 20,000 people.

Evidence of the steady growth is provided in the number of new homes under construction; the flourishing small businesses, and the steady increase in school attendance.

Situated as it is, almost midway between Victoria and Nanaimo, Duncan is easily reached by all forms of transportation.

Taken all around, Duncan holds an enviable position on Vancouver Island.

General C. A. P. Murison, Reeve of the Municipality of North Cowichan, on which Duncan borders, has watched the city grow and expand. He is pictured above with Mrs. Murison in the garden of their attractive home on Jaynes Road.

xoung wives' circle in Duncan includes, from the left, Mrs. J. A. McConnell, Mrs. W. D. McCauley, Mrs. P. Postuk, Mrs. J. Pawlowski and Mrs. D. M. Smith, Their husbands are doctors who have established practices in the city and surrounding municipality.

Biggest construction job in the Duncan area in recent months is a-new post office and federal building to be completed this year. Postmaster J. R. Corney, left, is enthusiastic over the increased space and modern offices in the new building, Mr. R. F. Fowler, right, is manager of the Royal Bank, one of three major banking systems with buildings in Duncan. Mrs. Fowler is at left centre and Mrs. Corney at right.

Dawning of the drip-dry age has brought all sorts of new problems to homemakers. Have you been spending precious minutes scrambling around looking for hangers that won't stain or rust? Then, when you find a suitable one for that shirt or dress, where on earth does one hang it, dripping away? We used the shower curtain rod until the whole wretched thing-wet clothes, shower curtain and all-came crashing down!

Modern answer to all the problems comes in one little package. It holds three folding plastic hangers (no staining or rusting) AND a bracket to attach to tiles (above a tub) or glass or mirror (for garment to drip in basin).

Bracket is on a good-sized suction cup—just moisten and press firmly. When it's attached, it will hold the three hangers heavy with damp clothes—strongly and firmly—until all's dry. Then fold hangers and bracket up, tuck away in corner of a drawer till you next need 'em. Bracket and three hangers cost only 98 cents.

ANNIVERSARY EVENT

TO FIND $1,000 TIMES DIAMOND

This Is the Diamond Ring

Where is The Times diamond?

For the past three weeks, advertising columns of The Times have been asking this question.

Today, The Times explains the story behind that "teaser," simultaneously announcing a fun game in which the lone prize is:

A DIAMOND RING FASHIONED BY THE CRAFTSMEN OF HENRY BIRKS AND SONS IN THEIR MONTREAL JEWEL STUDIOS, AND VALUED AT $1,000!

The valuable ring, containing three exquisite stones, and mounted in an elegant setting, arrived in the city this week and will shortly be on display in Birks' window.

The prize was offered by The Times to mark the occasion of its 75th (Diamond) anniversary, which occurs one month from today.

So now the great treasure-hunt is on. A piece of Times' stationery, entitling the finder to claim "The Times Diamond," has been secreted in Greater Victoria. Only two persons know its whereabouts. The burning question today is:

Where is it?

This much can be revealed: In order to locate "The Times Diamond," it will not be necessary to dig, shovel, hoe, climb a fence, or invade any person's private property.

Each day, until the precious slip of paper is found, readers will be given a clue.

There are no forms to fill out, no special rules or regulations to obey. Only persons disqualified from the treasure-hunt are employees of Victoria Press Ltd., of Henry Birks and Sons Ltd., and their families. Officers of The Times will adjudicate any questions which may arise, and their decision will

It is recommended that clues be clipped out daily and saved. Some of them will be tricky—but gradually a pattern will emerge.

Here is the first one:

The stars are diamonds in the sky But one much nearer earth may lie.

Last of the old-time swimmers! And what a shame, for weren't those the good, old days when the strait was full of swimmers, and Harold Elworthy nearly went out of the towing business because all his tugs were busy

The Golden Age of Strait swimming, from Flo Chadwick to the Jaycee mass swim, was all too brief. But, you must admit, fascinating in sort of a gruesome way. Hunched over our Times' swim chart (he's now in the grid H-24, still swimming strongly), we followed the pro-gress of Bert Thomas and bet on him or against him, as the case may be.

We cheered the efforts of local boys such as Ben Laughren and Bill Muir, snarled nastily at imported swim-mers who belittled the difficulty of the swim.

We grabbed our daily paper, anxiously looking for pictures of Amy Hiland or Anita Long or Billy Benedict or Janice White, standing on the shore of Horseshoe Bay and pointing to the south.

We listened solemnly as each swimmer said he was going to do it for the challenge, and we cheered wildly when Ted Simmons, the Toronto garbageman, came along and said HE was doing it for the morey.

And, of course, we followed with great interest the nickname-coining contest of the sportswriters (Burly Bert, Big Ben, Muir the Saanich Surveyor, Marilyn the Swimming

And then there was that hysterical night when we sat over our swim charts, swearing we would go to bed after one more broadcast. But we stayed there until it was time to go down and welcome Bert Thomas, and make him a freeman of the city, and all like that.

In a way, it was a pity when Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon came out here and swam south and swam north and took the edge off the challenge.

This Is the Diamond Ring

Where is The Times diamond?

For the past three weeks, advertising columns of The Times have been asking this question.

Today, The Times explains the story behind that "teaser," simultaneously announcing a fungame in which the lone prize is:

A DIAMOND RING FASHIONED BY THE CRAFTSMEN OF HENRY BIRKS AND SONS IN THEIR MONTREAL JEWEL STUDIOS, AND VALUED AT $1,000!

The valuable ring, containing three exquisite stones, and mounted in an elegant setting, arrived in the city this week and will shortly be on display in Birks' window.

The prize was offered by The Times to mark the occasion of its 75th (Diamond) anniversary, which occurs one month from today. * * *

So now the great treasure-hunt is on.

A piece of Times' stationery, entitling the finder to claim "The Times Diamond," has been secreted in Greater Victoria. Only two persons know its whereabouts.

The burning question today is:

Where is it? This much can be revealed: In order to locate "The Times Diamond," it will not be necessary to dig, shovel, hoe, climb a fence, or invade any person's private property.

Each day, until the precious slip of paper is found, readers will be given a clue.

There are no forms to fill out, no special rules or regulations to obey. Only persons disqualified from the treasure-hunt are employees of Victoria Press Ltd., of Henry Birks and Sons Ltd., and their families. Officers of The Times will adjudicate any questions which may arise, and their decision will be final.

* It is recommended that clues be clipped out daily and saved. Some of them will be trickybut gradually a pattern will emerge.

Here is the first one:

The stars are diamonds in the sky But one much nearer earth may lie.

PRINCE RUPERT RILED

CBC Film Called Bloody Awful

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation "a letter of severe condemnation" following screening here of a TV film on the city.

The film was described by members of the chamber as showing Prince Rupert at its worst. They called it "atrocious," "bloody awful," and "a stinking film."

They said the film; loaned to pert during an all-day rain-storm, the most run-down sections of the city, numerous shots of board sidewalks and two sunken gillnetters as part of the Prince Rupert fishing fleet.

"A stinking film," said Alderman A. Donald Ritchie.

ALL ABOUT RIOT

In a letter accompanying the film, Kenneth Caple, CBC regional director in Vancouver, said the film portrayed facts and social problems. There was no intent to show the city in an unfavorable light, but it presented "an honest opinion."

Much of the film consisted of interviews with prominent Prince Rupert citizens on the causes of a riot in the city last August,

This man is your neighbour ...

You can be a good neighbour to this man who has come to grief through misfortune or misdeed. In the hostels, havens, homes and hospitals of The Salvation Army, such men are given compassionate help and led back to health in body and spirit. The message of hope is carried even to those in prison and offenders are often placed in the care of The Salvation Army in lieu of sentence.

To you this man may be a stranger, but like the man befriended by the Good Samaritan whom the Master praised, he is your neighbour.

By your contribution to such works of mercy you can know the happiness of being a good neighbour in a practical way.
